

BRICK FELL ON HIS HEAD, GETS $40,000

Wall Street Bank Employee Recovers Big Verdict for Injuries.

A jury in Supreme Court Justice Crane's court, Brooklyn, to-day, awarded damages of $40,000 to James P. Hughes, 31 years old, of No. 340 Sixth avenue, an appraiser of railroad properties, employed by George P. Butcher & Brothers, bankers and brokers, at No. 35 Wall street, for damages which he sustained on September 28 of this year. Hughes was passing the Arlington apartment at No. 60-62 Montague street, Brooklyn, on the way to his work in Manhattan. The building was undergoing repairs. A brick dropped from the tenth floor, striking Hughes on the head and fracturing his skull. He was carried to the Long Island College Hospital, where he lingered near death for a month. Although finally discharged as cured, it is claimed that his injuries are of a permanent nature, an injury he will never fully recover his mental powers.

He sued for $100,000 damages, naming as defendants the John C. Rouse Company, which had the job of repairing the Arlington and the Harbor & Suburban Building and Savings Company, which had the sub-contract.
